SPEEDY BOOKWORM

Speedy Bookworm is a book that teaches children speed reading techniques through a fun and engaging story. The main character, Mischievous Worm, accidentally ends up in a child's home after hiding inside an apple from the market. Initially uninterested in reading, the worm hides inside a book titled "Speed Reading Techniques" and, while exploring its pages, begins to learn how to read faster and more effectively.

Throughout the story, the book emphasizes the idea that reading faster does not reduce comprehension but actually enhances it. It explains that slow reading can lead to boredom, subvocalization (inner speech) slows down reading speed, and speed reading helps improve focus. In the end, Mischievous Worm teaches these techniques to Ali, a child who dislikes reading, helping him develop a love for books. Feeling like a "superhero," the worm realizes the power of reading. This book aims to entertain children while also encouraging reading habits and developing speed reading skills.

Beauty and Love is a stunning graphic novel adaptation of Seyh Galib's 18th-century masterpiece, Hüsn-ü Aşk. This timeless tale, originally a poetic allegory of Sufi mysticism, has been reimagined with breathtaking visuals by Emre Karacan, bringing its profound themes to life for a new generation.

The story follows Aşk (Love) and Hüsn (Beauty), two souls born into the same clan who fall deeply for one another. When Aşk seeks to marry Hüsn, the clan elders mock him, demanding he retrieve kimya (the essence of transformation) from the land of Kalb (Heart). Accompanied by his loyal servant Gayret (Perseverance), Aşk embarks on a perilous journey filled with trials—facing dark giants, treacherous witches, and fiery seas. Yet, as the story unfolds, it becomes clear that Hüsn and Aşk are not separate beings but reflections of the same divine truth.
